A GREAT REDUCTION.

The Old Reliable Exchange for One Dollar a Year.

Hereafter, the subscription price of the Exchange will be only one dollar a year, invariably in advance. A few of our subscribers are in arrears now. They will pay at the rate of $1.50 per annum, when they can renew at the new rate. We cannot publish the paper on a credit at one dollar per annum and pay our bills; so please bring or send us a dollar and take the paper one year for it.

SMALL CHANGE.

Where was our assistant postmaster yesterday?

Snow fell here several hours yesterday, but most of it melted.

Rich Person cut his finger very bad with a razor last Saturday.

Mr. E. A. Collins' fine Norman Per heron stallion, George Washington, arrived this week.

Mr. Zeph Conner has our thanks for a lot of the largest fresh oysters we ever saw in this market.

On account of the inclemency of the weather, the Finals were postponed until next Monday night. Let everybody come out.

Our "Devil" says that he is so deep in love he will have to "Wait till the clouds roll by," but is afraid the old man will roll out first, unless there is a sweeping cyclone.

Dr. R. T. Davidson, the dentist, has permanently located in our town. His office is in the Dickinson block over the barber shop, where he will be glad to see those needing work. Read his local in another column.

All the citizens interested and all real estate agents of the 13th civil district are requested to meet at the Mayor's office on Feb. 13th, to select delegates to the Inter-State Convention at Jackson, on Feb. 24th, 25th and 26th. E. N. STONE, Mayor.

Memphis Avalanche: No road in the south is kept in better condition than the Illinois Central, and as an evidence of his appreciation of the faithful services of his responsible men, President Clarke on the first of the year made each section foreman along the entire line, from Chicago to New Orleans, a present of a $50 bill.

A Mr. Lambert came here from Middle Tennessee a few weeks since and is now at the point of death, if not dead, he having been very ill with pneumonia ever since he came here. He has a wife and no children, and lives at the Taylor place, opposite Mr. Duke's. They are very needy, and we hope our people will look after them.

W. S. (Tobe) Burress, who lives near Milan, was arrested last Tuesday by special deputy U. S. Marshal W. S. Moore, by order of Marshal Freeman, and carried before U. S. Commissioner Haun on the charge of passing counterfeit money in Fulton. We understand there is more than one charge in both Kentucky and Tennessee. He will be tried before Commissioner Haun next Tuesday, when he will have a chance to prove his innocence, or be bound over to court.

Hon. A. C. Estes, of Brownsville, candidate for judge of this circuit, was in our town Thursday and Friday of this week mixing with the people. Col. Estes is a lawyer of ability and high standing in West Tennessee. He graduated at the Law School of the University of Virginia and has enjoyed a large practice in the circuit and supreme courts of this state for many years. He is known to our readers as the able and affable chairman of the congressional convention held here in 1882, when he made many warm friends by his impartial and just decisions of questions before that body.

Trenton Herald: Henry Oppenheimer went over to Bradford to arrest a man by the name of Edmunds, who was wanted in Nashville for jumping his bond. After arresting him and just as the train upon which they expected to take their departure rolled in, the prisoner made a break for liberty and attained it. He has not been recaptured.

PERSONAL.

Geo. Cade, of Brunswick, was in town yesterday.

Mr. A. A. Cook and wife returned from Memphis this week.

John Foster spent several days with his parents at Medina this week.

Dr. Danner has been laid up with an old wound received during the war.

Dr. Jordan attended the Grand Lodge of Masons at Nashville this week.

Mr. V. L. Ware will lecture at the Baptist Church in Trenton next Friday night.

Mr. Ed Spencer returned from Trenton last Tuesday, where he has been visiting friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Henderson are still quite sick, and it is feared their recovery will be tedious.

Miss Fidelia Woolen was called home Thursday, by the death of her brother-in-law, Mr. N. J. O'Neil.

Wm. Watt, Esq., one of the best and most popular citizens of Gibson county is announced in our columns this week as a candidate for Trustee. He will make an excellent officer if elected, and his many friends in the county will give him an earnest support. We have no doubt that he will be a formidable opponent, and if not elected will scare the other candidates pretty badly.

MARRIED.

Mr. Will Hicks and Miss Mattie McCulloch, both of Trenton, were married in that city on Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Mr. Rothrock officiating. The young couple stand high in social circles and their start in life is with the brightest prospects. The Exchange tenders its heartiest congratulations and hopes that the future may bring nothing to mar their happiness.

Mr. G. W. Wilson, the handsome Williamson street merchant, was married last Wednesday morning to the charming Miss Sallie Caldwell, at the residence of her uncle, D. C. Caldwell, Esq., three miles east of town. The bridal party left on the afternoon train for New Orleans, where they will enjoy a few days delightfully. They have the good wishes of the Exchange.

Last week Mr. M. M. Reid, a prominent citizen of the 18th district of this county, and Miss Mattie A. Sullivan, of Mason's Grove, were married at the residence of the bride's brother, Rev. J. D. Sullivan officiating.

News from Milan.

Frank James, the former bandit, is stopping at Milan, Tenn., accompanied by his wife. Mr. James says that his case of consumption is not bothering him very much. He says that he takes three drinks of whisky every day, and thinks he is in no danger of dying very soon.—Morristown Gazette.

The editor of the Exchange hearing Mr. James would be here, skipped for New Orleans Saturday. On his return last evening he found the safe and money of the Tennessee Press Association intact. Mr. James is not and has not been here.

Dentistry.

I have opened an office in Milan, in the Dickinson block, over the barber shop, where I can be found during office hours, by those wishing Dental service, and earnestly ask the public to come and see me. Gold work a Specialty. Artificial teeth mounted on any material. Anesthetics used in the extraction of teeth. Thanking the people for past favors I am,
Very respectfully,
R. T. DAVIDSON, D. D. S.

LITERARY NOTES.

The opening article in the Southern Bivouac for February is by Judge A. E. Richards, "Bass Fishing in the Shenandoah." Judge Gayarre tells of an interview on Reconstruction, held in 1876, with William H. Seward. General Liddell's Record of the Civil War is continued, and gives some inside views of the relations of the Southern War Governors to the central government at Richmond. This paper is accompanied by an excellent portrait of General Liddell. The article which will probably attract most attention is, "My Impression of General Robert Edward Lee," by Alexander H. Stephens. This article was dictated by Mr. Stephens a short time before his death, but never revised. It is accompanied by an unfamiliar portrait of General Lee taken from an early photograph. Will Wallace Harney begins a story of life in Florida during the reign of the carpet-bagger. Louis Pendleton tells "The Story of Black Dan," a runaway slave. Richard W. Knott has an article on "Poetry and Criticism." General Gilbert concludes his account of "Bragg's Invasion of Kentucky," and W. H. Swallow describes the disastrous charge of "Longstreet's Division at Gettysburg." The poetry of the number is unusually good. Paul H. Hayne has some strong lines on "Robert Lee." Clinton Scollard contributes "Under the Magnolias," a descriptive poem; and there are poems by Henry Austin and "S. G." The editorial departments have their usual variety of interesting matter.

The February number of Demorest's Magazine is before us, and on examination we find it very readable. "A Quaint Old City," which is profusely illustrated, is quite interesting, and "A Year in Los Angeles," and "Peter the Great" are good articles. Mrs. Hart's serial "That Other Person," is continued, and the shorter tales are unusually well told. "From Pencil to Brush" is an admirable feature of this magazine. Jennie June furnishes a paper on the origin of "Scurvy," and the art department is made attractive by a fine oil picture, "Love's Postman," and a photogravure from a painting by Aulbert and fifty other illustrations.
